A TURNAROUND SEASON

The Sea Gulls of 1984 showed dedication as a group thoughout the year, resulting in the dramatic turnaround from a 1-11 record in 1983 to the 7-6 finish in 1984. "They all worked very hard before and during the season," says Coach Grace Lamboni. "It was such a big turnaround, I know that we are on our way to a better season next year."

Lost from the 1984 squad are seniors Jeanne MacLeod and team Most Valuable Player Belinda Spann. MacLeod started the 1984 season as the number one singles player. But with selflessness, she played at the number two and three positions throughout the year. "Jeanne was typical of the kind of players we had on the team this year," says Lamboni, who finishes her second year as the Sea Gulls' head tennis coach. "She did things for the team not just for herself. The whole team followed her lead. She's put in some good time with the program and we are really going to miss her next season."

Another player the Gulls will miss is Spann, who compiled a 7-5 record overall and won the number six division of the MAIAW championship tournament in Frederick. "Belinda possesses power and the willingness to put out to win," says Lamboni. "She worked hard and brought the team along throughout the year."

With the two seniors leaving, Lamboni is anxious to find people to replace them and take the leadership role needed to form a winning attitude. Junior Stephanie Cooke, Susan David and Angela DelGrosso will return with added strength and confidence for their senior year in 1985. Freshman Tenna Detwiler impressed opponents in both singles and doubles play and will return with even more power with a year of college play under her belt. Sophomore Leah Tucker proved to be a very competitive player and will also return to give strength to the 1985 team.

Dedication, hard work, determination to be the best that can be. These are trademarks of the Salisbury State Athletic program—the Salisbury State tennis team is no exception.

COACH

GRACE LAMBONI (Salisbury State '80) finishes her second season as the Sea Gulls' women's tennis coach with a much better feeling than at the conclusion of her rookie season.

The Sea Gulls of 1984 finished the season with a 7-6 record to give Lamboni her first winning season as a coach. Her 1983 squad went through controversy after controversy and finished the season with only a 1-11 record and a roster that resembled Swiss cheese–it had a lot of holes.

Through both determination and hard work, the 1984 Sea Gulls fashioned a season which Lamboni envisions as the launch pad of several excellent seasons to come.

A graduate of the Salisbury State Physical Education Department, Lamboni was a four-year varsity player for the Sea Gulls. During that time, Salisbury State won the state championship in 1977, '78 and '79, receiving national ranking in 1979.

The former Grace Byron is married to Sea Gull head athletic trainer Pat Lamboni. She teaches at Delmar Elementary School.

SSC TODAY

Nestled in one of the nations's most magical and historical areas, the Eastern Shore of Maryland, Salisbury State College effectively combines the relaxed yet personable nature of a small college education with the rigorous academic demands of a major university.

The recreational pursuits of the Eastern Shore are legendary, from the boardwalk of Ocean City to the wilderness of Chincoteague Island to the tranquility of Blackwater Refuge near Cambridge, Md. Only 30 miles to the east is Ocean City's famous white beach and the 30 miles of Assateague Island's National and State Park.

Salisbury, Wicomico's county seat and the Shore's major city today, was laid out by a charter granted in 1732, the year George Washington was born. Progressive growth has been characteristic of Salisbury. It has grown over the years from a little crossroads town with a small lumbermill and a few stores into a flourishing business center and a chief distributing point.

The College offers undergraduate programs leading to the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees, and graduate programs leading to the Master of Arts in English, History and Psychology, the Master of Education, and the Master of Business Administration.

Salisbury State's undergraduate program became more defined in 1984 with the alignment of the College's major programs into five distinct schools of learning: the School of Nursing and Health Sciences; the School of Business; the School of Liberal Arts; the School of Professional Studies; and the School of Science.
